

Forensic Software Acquires e-safety Products

Forensic Software Ltd, e-safety software specialist for the UK, has acquired e-safety products, Policy Central Enterprise™ and CSWEB™ from US firm, Security Software Systems Inc. (SSSI).

For customers of Policy Central Enterprise in the UK - local authorities, broadband consortia and over 800 education establishments - and customers of CSWEB – UK home users – the acquisition will enable even faster product development time, quicker response to development requests and future product versions even more relevant to the UK market.

“We have been successfully using Policy Central Enterprise within our authority for a couple of years to protect children,” says Richard Lawson, Telford and Wrekin Borough Council. “Forensic Software’s acquisition of Policy Central Enterprise gives it greater control over the future direction of the product and that can only be a good thing for us and the wider education sector.”

Formally sole UK distributor of Policy Central Enterprise and CSWEB, Forensic Software Ltd has granted distribution rights for both products back to SSSI in the USA. Forensic Software will also appoint further distributors overseas in the coming months to compliment the existing ones in Australia and the Middle East.

“We have now taken full ownership and complete control of Policy Central Enterprise and CSWEB,” says Marie Bailey, Education Director at Forensic Software Ltd. “We are now in an even stronger position to drive the e-safety agenda and equip UK education establishments and home users with the tools needed to use the internet safely.
